The Honorable Julius Genachowski
Chairman
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear Chairman Genachowski:

The Universal Service Fund (USF) and intercarrier compensation policies have long played a role in ensuring that telecommunication services are made available to and remain affordable in communities across the nation. As communications technologies rapidly evolve, these programs are in serious need of reform if they're to continue to benefit consumers and spur job creation as they have in the past.

It's our judgment that the FCC must act swiftly yet carefully to enact reforms that allow all Americans - particularly those in hard-to-serve rural communities - access to the burgeoning services and opportunities that are being created via innovations in broadband technology. Similarly, we believe the FCC should pursue a USF reform framework that is fiscally responsible, enforceable, and sustainable, providing opportunities for a wide range of robust broadband technologies to compete. To accomplish this, it's critical that those overseeing the fund work to end duplicative subsidies and to more appropriately direct funds into areas where support is needed to deploy and maintain affordable, high-quality broadband services.

Many key stakeholders have weighed in on the Universal Service Fund debate, contributing a number of reform proposals. Among those proposals offered is a plan comprised of two complementary strategies: the America's Broadband Connectivity plan (ABC) and the Joint Rural Association plan. One advantage of this approach is that taken together, this framework appears to embody the core principles of the Commission's National Broadband Plan - transforming the Universal Service Fund to bring sustainable broadband service to communities across the nation by supporting the infrastructure in a competitively neutral manner that will enable both wireline and wireless broadband in rural communities. While many details remain to be fleshed out by the FCC, this framework clearly creates a path forward for comprehensive USF and intercarrier compensation reform.

We strongly urge the FCC to maintain the key elements of the America's Broadband Connectivity and Joint Rural Association proposals as you consider other proposals to revise the plan. Thank you for your consideration, and we look forward to your attention and prompt response in this matter.

Sincerely,

Lee Terry

JULIUS GENACHOWSKI
CHAIRMAN

November 17, 2011

The Honorable Rodney Alexander
U.S. House of Representatives
316 Cannon House Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Congressman Alexander:

Thank you very much for your letter regarding the Commission's efforts to reform and modernize the Universal Service Fund (USF) and the intercarrier compensation system (ICC). Your thoughts and concerns were a valuable contribution to our process, and were considered as part of the Commission's deliberations.

On October 27, after many years of hard work on Capitol Hill, among the FCC's Commissioners, and by Commission staff, the Commission unanimously adopted a comprehensive Order overhauling the broken and backward-looking USF and ICC systems for the Internet age. By transitioning these programs to the Connect America Fund, we are delivering on our shared national goal of universal voice and broadband service – including universal mobile voice and broadband service – and enabling increased private sector investment in the indispensable infrastructure of the 21st century: broadband. Importantly, our reforms are fiscally responsible, eliminating waste and inefficiency, using market-based mechanisms to target support where it is needed, and putting the Fund on a firm budget.

The Commission's Order will create jobs beginning in 2012, and lay the foundation for enduring job creation, economic growth, and U.S. global competitiveness for years to come.

For your information, I am enclosing a copy of the Order's "Executive Summary." Please let me know if I can be of any further assistance.

Sincerely,

Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Congressman Terry:

Thank you very much for your letter regarding the Commission's efforts to reform and modernize the Universal Service Fund (USF) and the intercarrier compensation system (ICC). Your thoughts and concerns were a valuable contribution to our process, and were considered as part of the Commission's deliberations.

On October 27, after many years of hard work on Capitol Hill, among the FCC's Commissioners, and by Commission staff, the Commission unanimously adopted a comprehensive Order overhauling the broken and backward-looking USF and ICC systems for the Internet age. By transitioning these programs to the Connect America Fund, we are delivering on our shared national goal of universal voice and broadband service – including universal mobile voice and broadband service – and enabling increased private sector investment in the indispensable infrastructure of the 21st century: broadband. Importantly, our reforms are fiscally responsible, eliminating waste and inefficiency, using market-based mechanisms to target support where it is needed, and putting the Fund on a firm budget.

The Commission's Order will create jobs beginning in 2012, and lay the foundation for enduring job creation, economic growth, and U.S. global competitiveness for years to come.

For your information, I am enclosing a copy of the Order's "Executive Summary." Please let me know if I can be of any further assistance.

Sincerely,
